Hollywood captures the beauty of Tejon Ranch on film

Over the years, hundreds of millions of people have seen Tejon Ranch – they just might not know it! That’s because they’ve seen the Ranch when it’s served as a location for a television program or commercial, a print ad or brochure, or for a major motion picture.

Tejon Ranch has long been a favorite location for national and international productions alike. The Ranch boasts a wide variety of diverse looks and locations, a professional staff to assist producers, close proximity to Hollywood and the other entertainment centers in Southern California – all on 270,000 acres of private property. It’s no wonder that Tejon Ranch has been the scene of hundreds of productions over the years, including such recent motion pictures as Star Trek, K-PAX and Sea Biscuit.

But the core of filming on Tejon involves commercial advertising, both print and television. For example, commercials for virtually every make and model of automobile have been shot on the Ranch.

Most recently, the Ranch doubled as the African plain for one of Coca Cola’s Super Bowl commercials. The ad featured a man sleep walking past wild animals and other perils in search of a bottle of Coke. It’s not the first time Tejon Ranch has been featured in the Super Bowl. The “Cat Herders” commercial for the data company EDS that aired during the 2000 Super Bowl routinely makes the list of favorite Super Bowl commercials.

With the addition of Tejon Mountain Village and Centennial to the landscape of Tejon Ranch, not only will be the Ranch be a favorite location for filmmakers to work, it also promises to be a desirable spot for those in the entertainment industry to live. As the industry continues to move out of Hollywood proper to areas in northern Los Angeles County, with the entirety of Tejon Ranch as its back lot, Centennial will also prove to be an ideal location for film production-related businesses to establish a presence.

Endurance: Tehachapi Surprise

In 2005, Tejon Ranch served as the location for the filming of the fourth season of the Discovery Kids television show Endurance (a Survivor-type show for kids). The show was all about competition, so it should come as no surprise that when it came time for former cast member Isaac Hainley to plan a special 20th birthday for his girlfriend, Amelia Land, whom he met on the show, Isaac had to outdo what she had prepared for his 20th birthday. For his birthday surprise, Amelia took Isaac to dinner at the Ayres Hotel in Los Angeles. That’s where the cast stayed back in 2005 before heading off to Tejon Ranch for the filming of Endurance: Tehachapi. Knowing he had to do one better, for her birthday, Isaac surprised Amelia with a trip back to Tejon Ranch to celebrate her birthday at the place where they met.

Isaac, who is from Portland, Oregon, and Amelia, who hails from Atlanta, Georgia, are now both college students in Southern California. Isaac’s studying film at USC and Amelia’s a student at the Fashion Institute of Design and Merchandising.

Amelia’s 20th birthday turned out to be an afternoon of sweet memories and new surprises. Neither of the two had been back to Tejon since the filming of the show, and their memories of the Ranch were limited to the warm summer months in which Endurance was filmed. A short tour of the Ranch left them amazed at the size of the Ranch, and just how green and lush it can be. And yes, with the surprise visit to Tejon Ranch, Isaac was the winner in the “better birthday” competition.
